Center Stage: Masterpieces of Cartoon Art

During these sometimes stressful times it's nice to explore the lighter side of life right? We had such fun taking a deeper dive into the world of cartoon art with author and expert Brian Walker at the Bruce Museum in Greenwich, CT. This special exhibition covered comic books, comic strips, editorial cartoons, animation and so much more. Click here to see our trailer. View the entire episode on Public Television nationwide or on Amazon Video anytime.

The Phillips Collection in Washington, D.C. presents works by Edward Hopper on loan from the Whitney Museum of Art. The early works on view were painted before Hopper returned to the U.S. and began creating paintings of American life that we all know and love. Glimpses of what would become staples in his later work such as high vantage points, contrasts of light & dark, and unusual angles are evident throughout the exhibition. On view through January 10th.

Scientists are already involved with training dogs to detect signs of Covid-19 infections in humans. It's a logical idea since a trained dog can detect minuscule traces of odor. It's been shown that they can detect the equivalent of one teaspoon of a specific odor in two Olympic swimming pools. Just one more talent of our four-legged friends. ## Behind-the-Scenes: The Met Cloisters, NYC

"The Cloisters is a magical museum any time of year but during the holidays it's extra special. It was a dream come true to learn more about the tapestries, paintings, stained glass and the stunning chapel from Spain that was reconstructed on site stone by stone with Griffith Mann, head of the Dept. of Medieval Art and the Cloisters. I'm looking forward to visiting this season, marveling at the beautiful holiday decorations once again and for a moment feeling like I am in medieval Europe."
