MUSEUM ACCESS MOMENT

The discovery of a new work by Frederick Chopin at the Morgan Library and Museum in NYC has been a major news event. Upon investigation of his careful notations, it appears Chopin intended it to be performed. The manuscript is on view in the Rotunda of the Morgan Library and Museum. Our visit to this incredible museum is now airing on Public Television / PBS stations nationwide and streaming on Amazon, Tubi, and Roku. Take a peek at our visit here.

We saw that magical exhibit Susan and totally agree. It was very special. Thanks for sharing!

A big congrats to one of our fave museums. The Wild Center, Tupper Lake, NY is now a Smithsonian Affiliate. Being a part of the Smithsonian Affiliates program aligns The Wild Center's commitment to excellence in science, education and public engagement. A milestone in the Wild center's mission. Bravo to Executive Director Stephanie Ratcliffe and her team. Check out the trailer from our visit to the Wild Center here.

FEELING A BIT DISORGANIZED?

This is the last photo ever taken of Nobel Prize winning physicist, Albert Einstein's desk. It was taken just hours after he passed away. Feel better about the disorganized mess on your desk? Thought so.

BEHIND – the – SCENES: THE MUSEUM OF NEW YORK CITY

“The Museum of the City of New York was such a surprise. A great location overlooking Central Park, filled with incredible artifacts from the city’s vibrant history to state-of-the-art videos throughout and multiple changing exhibits year- round. The ‘Above Ground’ graffiti exhibit was mind-blowing. I’ll never look at the art of graffiti the same way again!”
