AN AMERICAN HERO: ASTRONAUT JAMES LOVELL

We salute an American hero, the late Astronaut James Lovell in an exclusive conversation. Capt. Lovell shares his remarkable perspective on the early days of the space program, his experience during the pioneering Gemini missions to his leadership in the Apollo program including handling the challenges of the Apollo 13 mission. He provides insight into how these missions helped establish the United States as a global leader in space exploration. Here's a peek at this exciting episode.

Beloved American painter and illustrator Norman Rockwell occupied some 20 studios during his impressive career. His last studio in Stockbridge, MA is now located on the sprawling Norman Rockwell Museum campus. He used to refer to it as his "Best studio yet." Join us as we go behind-the-scenes into his magical studio during our Season 8 visit.

BEHIND – the – SCENES: The Driehaus Museum

“The lavish interior of this Chicago Gilded Age mansion turned stunning museum was the perfect setting for a fascinating exhibit of Tiffany Lamps. I loved seeing the decorative arts, stained glass, furnishings and period pieces displayed to perfection and cannot wait to return for more special exhibitions at the iconic Driehaus Museum.”
