Museum Access INSIDER Newsletter

BUDDING ARTIST FAVORITES

Our MUSEUM ACCESS Coloring Book has been a huge success with all ages since its launch but today, we're saluting 3 of our very first artists that sent us their pics. You can see more in our on-line gallery. We gave this Deluxe Art Set our stamp of approval too. What a great duo to keep those creative juices flowing!

MUSEUM VISITS
AS PRESCRIPTIONS?

HOLIDAYS ARE FOR BINGEING!

Time to catch up on past Museum Access episodes before the new season begins airing this Spring. Above is a peek at Season 4. Go to your local Public Television / PBS stations and Amazon Prime to see full episodes. In the meantime, we're working hard on a new season of museum adventures for you to enjoy!
Happy Bingeing!

MUSEUM ACCESS MOMENT

Thanks Kathryn, we LOVE outdoor museums, and this one is really special. One of our favorites too!

Yep! Psychiatrists in Brussels are prescribing museum visits to reduce everyday anxiety. These visits help patients focus on positive stimuli hence, relieving stress. A 6-month pilot program will study the impact of art and cultural institutions. By the way, we are 100% behind these 'museum prescriptions' for everyone! Use the holidays to visit your favorite museum. We bet you'll feel better too!

E-mail your favorite Museum Moment to us at : info@museumaccess.com to a chance to be included in our INSIDER Newsletters.

CONGRATS

A BIG congrats goes to DCMP, our partner in bringing educational content to K-12 disabled students nationwide. They recently received the 2022 'Audio Description Game Changer: Education' award by the American Council of the Blind. Stevie Wonder and Ewan McGregor were among the guests at the recent gala ceremony. DCMP maintains high standards as they bring more equitable learning experiences for blind and low vision students. We are so very proud to bring MUSEUM ACCESS to students everyday through DCMP.

NOT TO MISS...

His home for nearly 6 decades, New York City is the theme of a spectacular Edward Hopper exhibition on view at the Whitney Museum of American Art thru March 5. It's a look at the artist's fascination with the city through his paintings, drawings, photographs and journals, giving museum guests new insights into one of America's most influential artists.

Behind-the-Scenes:

Art Institute of Chicago

“Shooting at the Art Institute recently was like going home. I still remember taking drawing classes there as a teen. Those classes started me on the road to a creative life that has never been boring. It felt like a ‘full circle moment’ being back in the familiar galleries for sure!”
