FLORIDA MUSEUMS ESCAPE MAJOR HURRICANE IAN DAMAGE

We are pleased to report that both the Ringling Museum in Sarasota, FL and the Dali Museum in St. Petersburg, FL sustained no major damage to their collections during the recent hurricane. In preparation, staff members secured artwork and artifacts in vaults which can withstand strong winds. Parts of the beautiful gardens on the Ringling property were damaged and the beloved 'Wish Tree' in the Avante-Garden at the Dali Museum was destroyed but thankfully, both museum collections were left untouched. We look forward to revisiting soon.

RECONSTRUCTION CONTINUES

MUSEUM ACCESS MOMENT

3 Years after the fire, repairs continue at the Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris.

1,000 oak trees were harvested to become the new spire and transept roof.

Windows will be installed by Spring of 2023.

Based on present timing, the cathedral should be accessible in 2024. Fingers crossed!

Behind-the-Scenes: Milwaukee Art Museum

"What a beautiful summer day we had to visit the spectacular Milwaukee Art Museum. The Santiago Calatrava designed structure looked like it was taking flight onto the shores of Lake Michigan. The galleries and the design studio were mind blowing too, even for this 'seasoned museum enthusiast'. Already looking forward to another visit."
