

WHERE LEARNING IS AN ADVENTURE!

The Neue Galerie and Museum is a jewel-box of a museum housed in a restored Beaux-Arts mansion located on the museum mile of New York City.

The Neue Galerie and Museum building was designed by the architectural firm of Carrere & Hastings in 1914 as a private residence.

Ronald Lauder and Serge Sabarsky purchased the building and converted it into a museum which opened in 2001.

The decorative art collection at the Neue includes pieces from the important Viennese workshop of Wiener Werkstatte, considered to be a pioneer of modern design at the time.

In 1898 Gustave Klimt began to experiment using gold in his paintings. It became known as his Byzantine or Golden period.

Xtra Fun, Xtra Credit!

Create a Glimmering Drawing using Decorative Patterns!

Materials Needed:

- A Simple Black & White Drawing
- Metallic makers in different sizes

Step 1 Begin with the background of your picture adding lots of small squiggles, circles, triangles, dots...have fun!

Step 2 You can either leave the picture as is or you can color in the rest of the picture as you normally would.

Xtra Tip

Paintings / drawings using this decorative technique look great in gold frames!

Inspired by our visit to the Neue Galerie & Museum, in New York City, New York.

For more fun facts and information about Museum Access, go to www.museumaccess.com Or contact us at info@museumaccess.com

©Museum Access Media LLC 2023