

The National Museum of Law Enforcement in Washington, DC

is the only museum in the United States dedicated to the history of American Law Enforcement.

Did Ya KNOW?

911 is the most recognized number in the USA. Highly trained 911 call takers handle more than 250,000,000 calls every year!

Xtra Fun, Xtra Credit!

For adventurers 9+

Real to Reel...
Hollywood often creates stories about Law Enforcement. Write a short outline for a TV series starring YOU!

Bullet resistant vests that law enforcement officers wear are made of a lightweight fiber that is five times stronger by weight than steel.

Who Dun It?

Analysis of fingerprints is an important part of solving crimes. With washable ink, try making your own fingerprint images on paper. Compare them to your friend's fingerprints.

Professional K-9s are used to patrol our airports, locate illegal materials like drugs and bombs, for tracking individuals and much more. Mastering these skills can take up to 2 years of intense training.

Build it Test it Learn It!

Have fun role playing your favorite police officer for hours with this All-in One Police Force accessory kit for kids. Click here to purchase.

For more fun facts and information about Museum Access, go to www.museumaccess.com
Or contact us at info@museumaccess.com
©Museum Access Media LLC 2020